Make Connections and Get Involved at CityConnect 2017

On Saturday, June 3, from 1pm to 3pm, the City of Redding will come together for CityConnect 2017, at City Hall, 777 Cypress Avenue. CityConnect is a free event to make connections and get involved in your city.

CityConnect 2017 has something for young and old alike, with food samplings from local restaurants, prizes from local businesses, face painting, balloon creations, word bead bracelets, "meet your civic leaders" photo booth, a "civic engagement" dream-board, and much more.

Meet with local social service agencies and take the purpose-match workshop to discover opportunities to invest your interests, skills, and motivations in our city. From advocacy to strategizing, organizing to volunteering, and leading to serving, there are 100's of places waiting for your partnership.

CityConnect 2017 is an annual city-wide event, hosted by the City of Redding and produced by Redding LIFE. Primary partners: NorCal United Way, JCI Mar-

Why REU Trims Trees and Ways You Can Help

For Public Safety:

Maintaining required clearances keeps people safe from injury if they climb or work in trees located near power lines.

It's the Law:

State law requires REU to keep clearances between overhead power lines and all vegetation.

For Fire Safety:

Trimming trees to maintain required clearances prevents them from touching power lines that can start fires. Lines, such as phone and cable TV, that are installed lower on the utility pole don't require clearing because they present little or no fire hazard.

To Reduce Outages:

Trimming trees to maintain required clearances reduces outages caused by falling branches.

1. Allow REU access to trees when trimming is necessary.
2. Do not plant inappropriate trees under or near overhead power lines. Contact REU for a list of appropriate trees.
3. Never trim trees near power lines yourself. Call REU first at 224-4356.
