

Redding Connects

Your Connection to City Services

October 2017

} Primary REU Power Distribution Lines
"High Voltage" (12,000-115,000 volts)

} Secondary REU Distribution Lines
"High Voltage" (120-480 volts)

} Cable TV Lines

} Telephone Lines

Trees in power lines can be hazardous and can cause power outages. Should I prune trees away from REU's power lines myself? Customers should NEVER attempt to prune trees near power lines! Redding Electric Utility (REU) works hard to keep our electric lines clear of trees. Only qualified line clearance arborists are allowed to work within a minimum of 10 feet of "High Voltage" lines. These are the lines in the highest position on power poles. The words "High Voltage" are marked on poles or cross-arms with "High Voltage" signs. Telephone and cable company lines under normal operating conditions and usually found in the lowest position on a pole do not have clearance requirements because they typically do not carry any hazardous voltage levels.

Tree Safety Around Power Lines Did You Know?

Power Lines – Safety Facts and Tips

- Power lines are dangerous - very dangerous!
- Never climb or play in trees next to power lines.
- Never touch a power line.
- If you see a power line on the ground, don't touch it or go anywhere near it - call 911.

Trees growing into my REU service drop. Is this a hazard?

Your REU service drop is the electrical line that runs from REU's power pole to your home or business and is secondary voltage. This line only serves you and tree limbs around service drops are not typically trimmed by REU, but if you believe tree branches are straining or abrading your service drop, please call REU at (530) 224-4356. Care should be taken by anyone clearing trees near service drops because, although the lines may be lower voltage, an electrical contact could result in serious injury, even death.

If there is any question, call REU at 224-4356 for an inspection of your tree and line.

IN THIS ISSUE:

- Tree Safety Around Power Lines
- Burn Permits
- Home Tour
- Redding Library

Activity Guide

GET THE fall GUIDE

- Pickleball
- Men's Basketball League
- Photography
- Aunt Bees Kitchen
- Community Creek Clean Up
- Vine & Dine for Parks
- NFL Flag Football
- Redding Basketball League
- Fall & Winter Adventures
- Paddle Science

777 Cypress Ave. 2nd floor
reddingrecreation.org

47th AAUW Home Tour & Art Show 2017

-- Saturday, Nov. 4th, 10am-3:30pm, Ticket/Guide --
$25: Four incredible homes, including the historic Frisbie Mansion and a local Bed & Breakfast. The interior design of the homes includes creative items the home owners have designed and built themselves, as well as beautiful furniture and decor. Also stop by the Art Show at the Moseley Family Cellars to enjoy and/or purchase local art while nibbling on cookies with tea or coffee!

AAUW Art Gala -- Friday, Nov. 3rd, 5-8pm. Ticket -- $20: Moseley Family Cellars, at 4712 Mountain Lakes Blvd. in Redding. Enjoy music, hors d'oeuvres and a no-host wine bar ($5/glass). More than 20 local artists' original works, as well as prints and notecards, will be available for sale.

TICKETS ARE AVAILABLE IN ADVANCE FOR BOTH THE ART GALA AND THE HOME TOUR/ART SHOW, BEGINNING OCT. 6, AT THE FOLLOWING LOCAL OUTLETS: Holiday Markets on Placer and on Hartnell, Enjoy the Store, Dandelion, Jose Antonio's, Plaza Interiors Furniture & Design, Wild Thyme Garden & Gifts, Palo Cedro Gift Gallery, and at www.AAUWRedding.org.

Redding Library

October is always a fun month for families at the Redding Library. This year, it is no different!

FALL FUN IN OCTOBER REDDING LIBRARY

Children's Event

Thurs., Oct. 19 from 6-7pm – Buddy Sleepover w/Read for the Record

Come in your PJs with your favorite doll, stuffed animal or toy, and let your buddy sleep over (we'll take pictures to show how much fun they had). Help set a new world record for reading with children! We will read "Quackers" by Liz Wong.

Sat., Oct. 28 from 10am-Noon – Book Harvest
Come enjoy the 10th annual Fall Festival at the Redding Library! This fun fall carnival includes crafts, giveaways, Halloween dress up, and great fun. All ages; ages 13 and under come with an adult.

Teen Events

Tues., October 10 at 6pm – Sherlock Holmes Tea Party

Hosted by our Teen Advisory Board, teens are invited to a Sherlock-Holmes-themed tea party. Costumes and props are encouraged. Bring your favorite tea snacks.

For more information on these events and more call us at 530-245-7253. You can also visit us at www.shastalibraries.org.